

Lewis is finalist for national award

Written by Metro Sports Report
Tuesday, 11 February 2014 17:30 -

Cedar Rapids Washington Coach Megan Lewis has been selected as a finalist for a 2014 National Coach of the Year award.

Lewis is the head girls swimming coach and an assistant boys swimming coach at Washington.

The selection process is sponsored by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association. Winners are chosen based on coaching longevity, win-loss record, championship years, honors and service at the high school level.

All 152 Coach of the Year and Athletic Director finalists (eight in each of 18 sports) will be honored at the National Awards Banquet at the Sam King Lodge and Resort in Jackson Hole, Wyo., on June 18.