LAKE OZARK, Mo. - The Mount Mercy women's golf team is sitting in second place at the Heart of America Conference tournament, but the Mustangs have a lot of catching up to do.

The Mustangs trail William Penn by 24 strokes following the first round of the 54-hole tournament Tuesday at the Osage National Golf Club. The 10-team event continues Wednesday and Thursday.

All five of Mount Mercy's golfers are in the top-12 of the individual standings after 18 holes. Cheyenne Broquard leads the way in sixth place with an 8-over-par 80.

Megan Rhoads of William Penn leads the tournament at 1-over 73.
