McKenna Andersen, who helped the Xavier Saints win the Class 4A basketball title as a freshman last season, suffered a torn ACL in a scrimmage Saturday and will be lost for the entire season.

Andersen, a 5-foot-9 forward, averaged 5.5 points and 2.3 rebounds for Xavier last season. She led the team in 3-pointers with 23.

Andersen was injured Saturday during the first few minutes of a scrimmage at Kennedy High School as part of an IBCA clinic.

She is scheduled for knee surgery Dec. 3, according to Xavier Coach Tom Lilly.
