The Cedar Rapids Kernels and Minnesota Twins announced Wednesday that infielder Pat Kelly and outfielder Zack Larson have been placed on the 7-day disabled list.

Outfielder Chris Paul has been activated from the 7-day DL and outfielder LaMonte Wade has joined the Kernels from Elizabethton.

The Twins selected Wade in the ninth round of the 2015 draft from the University of Maryland. He played in 64 games at Elizabethton, batting .312 with nine homers and 44 RBIs.

Kelly went on the DL with a right hamstring strain. He is batting .220 with three homers and 30 RBIs.

Larson heads to the DL with a left oblique strain. In 106 games for the Kernels, he is batting .214 with 20 doubles and 54 RBIs.

Paul went on the DL Aug. 21 with a right shoulder impingement. He is batting .167 in six games with the Kernels.
