Former Jefferson standout Hannah Petersen belted a leadoff home run in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Mount Mercy its first Midwest Collegiate Conference win on Sunday, a 4-3 triumph over William Penn at Tomahawk Park.

William Penn bounced back to win the nightcap, 15-2.

Petersen had three hits in four trips to the plate for the Mustangs (12-19, 1-9). She also scored three runs. Petersen was the starting pitcher, but came out in the fifth after allowing three runs. Sara Kron picked up the win in relief for the Mustangs.

The nightcap was tied at 2-2 entering the fifth but the visitors scored 13 runs over the final three innings, including nine in the seventh, to gain the win.

Ellie Rizor had two hits in Game 2 for Mount Mercy. Maddi Vaske had a pinch-hit single driving home both Mustang runs in the fourth.

William Penn is 13-24, 6-6.
