The fall registration period for the 2019 Iowa Women's Softball League has begun.

The fall registration period is intended for returning players AND new players. The player fee during this period is $75, which represents a $25 savings off the normal price.

The fall registration period will end on Dec. 31. After that, the player fee will be the full $100 and players will be accepted into the league if space permits.

The goal is to have eight teams and 120 players in the IWSL next summer, with four teams in the Eastern Division in Cedar Rapids and four teams in the Central Division in Indianola.

The 2019 season will consist of a series of eight Sunday doubleheaders in June and July for a 16-game campaign. There are no practices during the week.

The entire registration process can be handled online. Click on the registration link that accompanies this story and have a credit card handy to pay the $75 through PayPal.

Full scholarships are available.
